Turin, May 22, N. S.

THE King of Sardinia has been to visit the Fortifications of Demont and Coni, and was four Days absent on that Progress. By all Accounts, the Repairs made to the former, and the new Works erected at Coni, will fully answer the Views of this Court, and sufficiently cover the Frontier of Piemont on that Side.

Turin, May 29, N. S. The Day before Yesterday the Marquis d'Ormea was seized with an apoplectick Fit, and died this Morning about Ten o'Clock.

Genoa, May 29, N. S. The Cavalry of the Spanish Army, under the Command of M. de Gages, advance very slowly, being with Part of the Infantry at Rapallo and the other Villages between that Place and this City, where they halt, until they have consumed all the Forage, to prevent the Austrians from following, by depriving them of all Hopes of Subsistance. Some small Parties arrive daily in the Bisagna, and march over the Hills into the Polcevera, where they have seized all the Passes and Avenues that lead to this City, stopping and visiting all Persons that come in or go out. Hitherto the Troops observe a strict Discipline, and pay for what they want. The Commissaries are endeavouring to contract for drawing the Train of Artiliery up to Tortona. Yesterday arrived two large Barks from Naples, each having three Pieces of Cannon and three Mortars, with all the necessary Ammunition. These two Vessels were in Company with another likewise loaden with warlike Stores, from whom they separated three Days before. The Letters from Naples received this Morning, mention the Departure from thence of 15 Vessels, all loaden with Artillery and Stores. The Vessels loaden with Ammunition from Barcelona, which were got to Monaco, have been ordered for their greater Safety to return back to Villa Franca, where they now are with the three French Men of War, expecting four others that are fitting out at Toulon, which, it is said, are to be joined by a Squadron of eight Gallies from Marseilles. The 23d Instant Prince Lobcowitz decamp'd from Parma with 14 Regiments of Infantry, and seven Regiments of Cavalry and Hussars, besides a Body of Lycaneers, and are marching towards Tortona, where he will halt to observe the Motions of the Spanish Armies in this State. It is reported, that upwards of 10000 Men of Regular Troops and Recruits are arrived in the Mantuan State to reinforce his Army. This Republick continue their military Preparations. The Marquis Grimaldi has been to confer with the Duke of Modena and M. de Gages, and upon his Return hither Marquis Durazzo was sent to Nice to have a Conference with the Infant Don Philip. Several Pieces of large Cannon, which were mounted on the Walls of this City, have been taken away and put in the Arsenal, and others of a smaller Size placed in their Stead. This Republick have at last determined to form a Camp near Novi; and two Days ago their Lieutenant General Count de Cecil set out from hence, in Company with M. Villier Camp Marshal, and three Engineers in their Service, to visit the Fortification of Gavi, from whence they are to go to Novi to mark out the Ground for the Incampment of their Troops. They have entered into a Contract for the supplying their Troops with 30,000 Rations of Bread weekly, and another has been made to supply the Community of Novi with 3000 Mines of Corn monthly, which being twice as much as the ordinary Consumption of the Place, the Surplus, it is supposed, will be applied for the Support of their Army.

From the Saxon Head Quarters at Landshut, June 6, N. S.

We are not yet able to declare the Loss of the Combined Army, but in all Appearance it will not be found to be much more than that of the Prussian. The Grenadier Companies of the Auxiliary Corps joined the Army the Night before last, but four of them, with Colonel Schonberg and Lieutenant Colonel Gersdorff who commanded the said four Companies, were missing. The Rutowski Regiment of Light Dragoons and the Pulcks of Uhlans likewise came in. Yesterday the Combined Army made a short March, and is disposed in such a Manner, as to cover the two Ways to Trautenau and Schimberg, by which we marched out of Bohemia into Silesia, and also the Magazines behind. This Position gives an Opportunity to our People that were separated to join the Army. We are raising some Batteries To-day in our Camp here, for employing in its Defence, in case caſe of Need, the heavy Artillery, which is all preſerved. But as ſome Time will be requiſite for repairing the Damage we have ſuffered by the Loſs, our Stay in this Camp will be ſhort, eſpecially as we are informed that the Pruſſians marched Yeſterday towards Hirſchberg.

From the Saxon Head Quarters at Slatin, June 8, N. S.

The Day before Yeſterday, at Nine o'Clock in the Morning, we had Advice, that the Pruſſian Army was in full March to our Camp by Landſhut, and that General Nadaſti was forced to retreat. As on Account of the conſiderable Loſs of Artillery, Generals, and upper Officers, it was not adviſeable to risk and expoſe ourſelves to the dubious Event of another Engagement; and as we did not at firſt intend to keep the Camp by Landſhut, the farther Retreat to Bohemia was reſolved upon. The Army diſpoſed accordingly, and the March begun in good Order. This was facilitated by the Precautions already taken of ſending the Baggage before by Break of Day, and the Troops were the leſs interrupted in their March. General Nadaſti, with the Huſſars and five Pulcks of Uhlans, formed the Rear Guard of the Combined Army, and, not to divide it, it was thought proper for the Whole to march by Schimberg. Our Rear Guard skirmiſhed for an Hour behind Landſhut with the Pruſſian Avant Guard, which had ſome Pieces of Cannon; ſometimes one Side, ſometimes the other had the Advantage, as it uſually happens in ſuch Caſes. The Day before Yeſterday we came into the Camp by Johnſdorff, and Yeſterday into this, and we were not diſturbed in our March Yeſterday. To give the Troops Time to refreſh themſelves after the two fatiguing Marches over the Mountains, we halt To-day, but intend to proceed To-morrow to the Neighbourhood of Jaromitz and Konigſhoff. Prince Charles intends to have his Head Quarters in the former, and the Duke in the latter, ſo that the Right Wing will be at Jaromitz, and the Left at Konigſhoff. As far as we can learn, the whole Pruſſian Army is march'd to Landſhut, and we have alſo Reports that it was gone to Hirſchberg. Wherefore to prevent the Pruſſian Army from penetrating into Bohemia by Trautenau, and cutting us from the Communication with Saxony, that Paſs is occupied by an Auſtrian Regiment of Dragoons. Orders are alſo given for cutting down the Trees, and a ſufficient Number of Men will be poſted there. Mean Time a Detachment of Uhlans is commanded to Trautenau, to obſerve and give Informations of the Motions of the Pruſſians.

Dreſden, June 11, N. S. The Rumour of a ſecond Action between the Pruſſians and the Allied Armies upon the 6th, aroſe from nothing but a few Skirmiſhes between them in the Retreat made by the latter. Not one of the Saxon Generals is kill'd, without it be Major General Schlichting, who was left behind dangerouſly wounded. Lieutenant General Polentz is alive, and was only thought loſt, from being trampled upon by his Horſe, as was Lieutenant General Berkholtz and Prince Sonderhauſen Major General. Major General Durfield, who behaved extremely well, and is thought one of the beſt Horſe Officers in the Saxon Army, received a Cut in his Head, but will ſoon be able to do Duty. Nor is it affirmed, that any amongſt the Auſtrian Generals, except Thungen, is kill'd. The whole Loſs of the Saxons is now ſaid to be leſs than was at firſt imagin'd, and that of the Pruſſians to be very conſiderable. The Recruiting here goes on very ſucceſsfully, and it is thought that the Troops at preſent in Bohemia will be eaſily completed in three Weeks, by which Time they will likewiſe receive the Cannon that is wanting.

Mentz, June 10. M. de la Farre is advanced towards Aſchaffenburgh; and the Prince of Conti, after having aſſembled all the French Troops which were either in Alſace or Swabia, together with the Remains of M. de Segur's Corps, is returning by the Bergſtraſs in order to join M. de la Farre.

Berlin, June 12, N. S. It is aſſured that the Pruſſian Avant-Guard, under the Command of General du Moulin has taken Poſt at Konigsgratz in Bohemia. M. Cagnoni arrived here Yeſterday Morning from Dreſden. The Saxon Miniſter (Bulow) and Reſident (Sipman,) at this Court, received Orders Yeſterday to leave Berlin, in the ſame Manner that M. Cagnoni had left Dreſden, and they are now preparing to ſet out. Hellerman's Battalion laſt from Stettin, entred into Garriſon in this Town upon the 9th of this Month. The Reigning Prince of Deſſau has received Orders to make the neceſſary Regulations for putting the Magdebourg Corps in March immediately.

Hague, June 12, N. S. The Allied Army remained on the 9th Inſtant in its Camp of Leſſines. The Cittadel of Tournay holds out; and, according to ſome Advices, coſts the Enemy a good Number of Men.

Hague, June 15, N. S. It is reported here, that the Detachment of the Prince of Conti's Corps, which paſs'd the Rhine at Biberich on the 23d and 24th paſt, and was advancing to the Saar, has been countermanded, and ſent back to join that Prince's main Army in the County of Darmſtat. We hear from Antwerp, that the Battering Train was begun to be embarked upon the Scheld on Tueſday laſt, and would be all ready to be tranſported wherever Occaſion might require in ten or twelve Days.

Dover, June 8. We have received Advice, that the Tranſports with the Troops from Graveſend, arrived ſafe at Oſtend Yeſterday Morning.

Dover, June 10. Yeſterday Evening his Majeſty's Ships the Faulkland and Saphire, with eleven Sail of Tranſports under their Convoy, paſſed this Road from Cork, which Place they left on Tueſday laſt; and as the Wind has continued very fair, it is thought they are by this Time arrived at Oſtend.
